

Displaying Reference Grid Markers

To display the reference grid markers you will need to be in the editing mode for any layer type.

1. Right click on a field name and select edit boundaries. Or double left click a layer so it is the top layer in the displayed layers box and select the edit layer button (pencil button above the map).
2. Right click the grid snap button and the grid snap box will appear.
3. Check the show grid box, enter the size of the grid and select the Move Origin box. Choose either Grid Point or Center Grid. With "Grid Point" you will need to select a point at which the grid will start, such as the corner of a field or the end of a line. Using "Center Grid" the grid will center itself on the map view.
4. You may now exit the edit mode and the reference grid markers will remain.
5. To remove the grid markers return to the map edit mode and deselect the show grid box and exit the edit mode.
